Objective:

Digital Learning requires a combination of technology, digital content and instruction.Technology is the mechanism that delivers content. It facilitates how students receive content. It includes Internet access and hardware, which can be any Internet access device from a desktop to a laptop to an iPad to a smartphone. Technology is the tool, not the instruction. Digital content is the high quality academic material which is delivered through technology. It is what students learn. It ranges from new engaging, interactive and adaptive software to classic literature to video lectures to games. It isn't simply a PDF of text or a PowerPoint presentation. Technology may change the role of the teacher but it will never eliminate the need for a teacher. With digital learning, teachers will be able to provide the personalized guidance.

By organizing data using software like Excel, data analysts and other users can make information easier to view as data is added or changed. Excel contains a large number of boxes called cells that are ordered in rows and columns. Improved data management using Excel. Excel makes it possible to efficiently store and manage large sets of data so you can track, sort, and filter to find just the information you need at any time.
